Tilden first in [illegible] to take the oath in a public manner [illegible] abandoned the design as soon as he [illegible] of Grant's determination to arrest [illegible] charge of treason and throw him [illegible] Monroe, as an instigator of se [illegible] and rebellion, upon his appearance at [illegible] for that purpose. THE TELEPHONE

MORE SENSITIVE AND ACCURATE THAN HUMAN ORGANS.

[Prof Youmans in Popular Science Monthly for March]

When we begin to use a telephone for the first time there is a sense of oddity, almost of foolishness, in the experiment The dignity of talking consists in having a listener, and there seems a kind of absurdity in addressing a piece of iron, but we must raise our respect for the metal for it is anything but deaf The diaphragm of the telephone, the thin iron plate, is as sensitive as the living tympanum to all the delicate refinements of sound. Nor does it depend upon the thinness of the metallic sheet, for a piece of thick boiler plate will take up and transmit the motions of the air particles in all the grades of their subtilty And not only will it do the same thing as the tympanum, but it will do vastly more, the gross, dead metal proves in fact, to be a hundred times more alive than the living mechanism of speech and audition This is no exaggeration In quickness in accuracy, and even in grasp, there is a perfection of sensitive capacity in the metal with which the organic instrument cannot compare We speak of the proverbial "quickness of thought," but the telephone thinks quicker than the nervous mechanism Let a word be pronounced for a person to repeat and the telephone will hear and speak it a hundred miles away in a tenth part of the time that the listener would need to utter it Give a man a series of half a dozen notes to repeat and he cannot do it accurately to save his life but the iron plate takes them up, transmits them to another plate hundreds of miles off which sings them forth instantaneously with absolute precision The human machine can hear and reproduce in its poor way only a single series of notes while the iron ear of the telephone will take up whole chords and trains of music and, sending them by lightning through the wire, its iron tongue will emit them in perfect relations of harmony

The Lost Camp.

[From the Walla Walla Watchman]

About fifteen years ago two miners came into Lewiston and purchased a supply of provisions and tools and paid for the same in dust, superior to that brought from Salmon river, and the then known surrounding mining districts They were very guarded in their conversation, yet it was known to the trader with whom they dealt, that they had a good camp somewhere in the Coeur d'Alene mountains and had struck rich diggings, that one of the party remained to finish the cabin while the other two came out of the mountains to lay in provisions unobserved in order to prevent a stampede thither and the Indians anger. They left as silently as they came, but since that day not a word has been heard from those men, nor were they ever seen Nothing more was thought of it until very recently, when a brother of one of the party came to this city and made inquiries, but without success Fifteen years is a long time to keep a gold mine concealed, yet where is it and what became of those three men?

What Tilden is It*

[New York Letter to Chicago Tribune]

If anybody Democratic or Republican thinks that Mr Tilden has for one moment abandoned the idea of being a candidate for the presidency in 1880, that person is quite mistaken After the past revelation of the closeness far sightedness and accuracy of this man's methods of political procedure, there will be no excuse if he is permitted to get the start in the race a second time For one despite all the talk against him, and the undoubtedly hostile—deeply hostile—attitude of leaders in his own party, I believe that Mr Tilden has to day more hold upon the machinery of that party than any being save himself is aware of It is a prime characteristic of the man to work behind others—to work noiselessly incessantly without losing sight of one point of advantage, till the machinery the means to accomplish the end, are all within his grasp Macaulay and Theology.

[From Macmillan's Magazine]

Macaulay when he was once pressed after his return from India to give his views on some one of the thousand theological questions which play so great a part even in parliamentary elections answered Gentlemen when a man has spent years in a country where men worship the cow it is difficult to take an interest in such trifles

Virginia New Enterprise: The old man [illegible] California [illegible] The other day at an election [illegible] Jose a [illegible] six months residence in the United States [illegible] through the streets carrying a [illegible] noose in his hand as a menace to [illegible] voters He would not have tried that experiment twenty years ago or if he had, would never have tried it again

Prince Napoleon [illegible] Murat recently [illegible] Jefferson county N Y He built [illegible] on the Indian river and laid the foundations of a town which he named Joachim The name still remains but naught else to mark it except the bridge

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

British Interests in the Pacific.

New York May 6 The Tribune has this The British naval force in the Pacific is exceedingly weak While the Pall Mall Gazette questions whether Russia by breaking through the declaration of the treaty of Paris can do English commerce much harm out of the Pacific it concedes that unfortunately the government seems even yet scarcely alive to the exigencies of the occasion The Triumph though ironclad, is a poor substitute for the Shah and other vessels being sent to Pacific stations It is claimed that apart altogether from the value of Vancouver Island, its harbors and coal the British squadrons in the Pacific are far too weak for the interests they have to protect Any heavy loss there, though it could not of course have much effect on the main issue of the war would be singularly damaging to British prestige in those seas

A Plan to Purchase Fifty Steamships

The Herald's Baltimore special says I am informed some ten other Russian naval officers are to come to this country and that with the assistance of two American se[illegible] men they are to designate 50 fast ships to be purchased and fitted out as privateers in the event of war with England Crews will be drafted partly from the men brought over by the Cimbria and will be completed by men enlisted in this country One of the officers has a list of the owners of steamers for sale in which the name of the Pacific Mail S S occurs

Parliament Reconvened.

London May 6 —Parliament reopened to day In the house of commons notice was given of the various questions regarding the employment of Indian troops

Northcote in reply to a question of Marquis of Hartington said I can only say negotiations with Russia continue It would be disadvantageous to public interest to discuss them now He further said the dispatch of Indian troops was resolved upon some time ago and it had not been thought necessary to communicate the intention to parliament The chancellor also said that although John Bright was not in the house he (the chancellor) claimed the right to refer to Bright's charge that the government and Sir Stafford Northcote in particular, had deceived the house He hoped Bright would make that charge in the house

The Handy Mitchell Marriage.

Washington Telegram (April 30) to S. L. Post.]

Senator Mitchell's eldest daughter was suddenly and secretly married last Tuesday to a young man of twenty two named Handy The marriage notice which appeared this morning in the daily papers here reading "no cards" drew attention to the subject and it has been thoroughly canvassed Mrs Handy is barely fifteen in short dresses six months ago and still with three years of school life before her pretty bright, and not unfrequently seen out during the winter. The engagement resulted three months ago with Handy He had been in a bank in the navy department and at one thing and another and was living at home with two or three sisters Senator and Mrs Mitchell gave guarded recognition to the engagement stipulating that their daughter should remain at school longer Tuesday last Miss Mitchell started for Baltimore, ostensibly with a school mate, met Handy, was married by a clergyman, and they made a trip to Baltimore as man and wife and returned It appears to have been the original intention of the parents not to recognize the marriage of their daughter, who returned to her place in a fashionable school on Thursday To day she was absent the marriage being generally known to the friends of the family yesterday When asked to choose between her father's home and her husband's it is said she elected to stay at home Another report indicates that it has been agreed to receive Handy as a member of the family

The European Situation

[From the New York Times]

The real salvation of Russia has lain from first to last in the divided interests of her opponents In 1[illegible] and 1814 there was no such division One man disturbed the peace of Europe and Europe arose as one man to pull him down But now England is too much engrossed with the highway to India to waste a thought upon the lower Danube Austria again filled with anxiety for the lower Danube ignores the highway to India altogether Germany as she has repeatedly declared, sees nothing in the present situation to compromise German interests France is sufficiently occupied with her own internal affairs Italy finds safety in a strict neutrality Turkey thinks of nothing but getting the Russian army of occupation off her shoulders as speedily as possible Meanwhile Russia, moving straight toward her object, reaps the advantage which concentrated vigor must always gain over random and divided efforts

Kearney Thrown Overboard.

San Francisco May 6 The county committee of the Workingmen's party held two meetings—one this afternoon the other this evening—to consider the conflict with Kearney and organization for the coming campaign Kearney was roughly handled by many of the speakers [illegible] disturbing element in the party and accused of running the organization in his own interest and selling out his influence with the party for [illegible] Resolutions were adopted severing connection with Kearney and providing for continuing the organization without regard to him and urging the executive committee to depose him from the chairmanship It was also claimed that the county and central committees were the lawfully and properly constituted organizations and that all ward clubs should proceed in the manner designated by such committees to elect delegates to the county convention for the purpose of putting up a ticket for the constitutional convention and if in any clubs Kearney can command sufficient influence to sway their action then all having the interests of the party at heart should be urged to sever their connection with such clubs and connect themselves with others who were working in a lawful manner Kearney's manner of packing and bulldozing the clubs and meetings for the purpose of carrying his own ends was severely dwelt upon and he was repeatedly denounced as void of principle honesty and reason There seems no reason to doubt that the breach between Kearney and the legitimate organization of the party is beyond repair

Workingmen's Quarrels.

The workingmen's club in the third precinct of the twelfth ward a week ago passed a resolution supporting the county committee in its contest with Kearney To night the club reconsidered the vote by which the resolution was adopted whereupon all the officers resigned and left, taking with them their adherents and were followed shortly by most of the club, who began to regret their action An attempt was made by the remainder to elect new officers but by the time they got down to balloting, only four men were left in the room, who adjourned sine die The club is practically broken up by a conflict of interests

The 2d ward club met at Scholay's hall to night This club at its last meeting also passed a resolution supporting the county committee To night Kearney invaded the meeting with about 100 of his followers, took charge of the proceedings rescinded by a show of hands the former action of the club and demanded a recall of the members of the county committee The whole proceedings were of the most high handed and outrageous character

The executive committee of the state central committee of the Workingmen's party met this evening and formally deposed Kearney from his position as chairman They will to morrow issue an address reciting their action and stating that Kearney though still a member of the party has no right to assume any authority whatever Frank Rooney was elected to the position of chairman of the committee Wellock who was present attempted to bulldose the committee but signally failed

Illegal Voting.

Register Kaplan is unearthing some very interesting data concerning the last election in this city He has ascertained that some dozen certificates of registration were taken out in a lump by some person and given to the prisoners in the county jail who voted on them without having ever made the affidavits required by law He has also discovered a case in which a seafaring man's name has been voted in every election in a certain precinct although the party states he has not been in the city to vote since 1874 Other interesting developments are promised.

Officials at Loggerheads.

The supervisors still remain at loggerheads with the board of police commissioners with regard to authorizing the appointment of an additional 100 policemen It is evident on the part of a majority of the board to fight their nominations on the force but it is believed the commissioners will finally carry their point

Another Shot at a Kearney.

During a meeting of the Workingmen's executive committee this evening W A Helm stated that he had proofs that Kearney Wellock and Redstone put up the ticket on which Senator Bones was elected, also that Kearney had received or was to receive $10,000 from Flood & O'Brien, and further that Kearney had offered to solicit subscriptions for the Workingmen's temple fund, as it was absolutely necessary he should obtain funds He wanted the statement made public so that Kearney might bring suit against him if he desired

PRIVATEERING FROM AMERICAN PORTS.

It has been assumed that because Russia has sent out a shipload of men and stores to the coast of Maine she is getting in readiness to send out privateers, in case of war with England, from ports of the United States. The officers of the expedition seem to be waiting for instructions from their government, or for the development of affairs as between Russia and England; while an agent of the English government is on the ground intently watching the suspected steamer and her movements. There is a further statement that Russian agents are offering to buy a large number of American steamers, ostensibly for use as privateers. Other signs point to a probability that war is not distant, or at least is expected; for certainly these movements could mean nothing except on the supposition that war is very likely to occur.

Privateering is attended with so many evils that efforts have been made to put it wholly under the ban by civilized nations. The powers which concluded the treaty of Paris in 1856 united in a declaration, by the first article of which "privateering is and remains abolished." Among other nations our own was invited to become a party to this declaration. But Mr. Marcy, then secretary of state, in a letter to the French minister at Washington, declined the proposal. Reluctance on the part of our government to enter the agreement was based on the argument that relinquishment of privateering would be a great gain to nations which keep on foot a large naval force, but not to the United States, where a powerful navy is not maintained. It was stated, however, that our government would readily agree to an arrangement by which the private property of the subjects or citizens of a belligerent power should be exempted from seizure by public armed vessels of the enemy, except it be contraband of war.

This last statement covers the principle for which civilization should contend. Dr. Franklin expressed proper views of the subject in the treaty of 1785, between the United States and Prussia, which he drew up, and also in several parts of his extensive correspondence. He said: "The practice of robbing merchants on the high seas, a remnant of ancient piracy, though it may be accidentally beneficial to particular persons, is far from being profitable to all engaged in it or to the nation that authorizes it." In his energetic style he denounced it as no better than highway robbery and housebreaking, and insisted that the law of nations should exempt private property on sea as well as on land from spoliation. There is no principle of moral justice which can admit that private property, which is free even in the enemy's land itself, on the soil invaded by a victorious army invested with the right of conquest, can be taken and plundered on the sea, on that element which is free by nature, and is neither friendly nor hostile territory. But these principles have not passed into international law, or general usage; and the practice which Franklin denounced a century ago as "a remnant of ancient piracy," still prevails.

By the United States privateering never has been defended and encouraged further than to maintain that citizens of states at war against each other may sail under their own flag against the enemy. We complained that England allowed privateers to be fitted out in her ports to prey on our commerce during the great rebellion; and England recognized her delinquency and obligations by paying a great award, settled by an international commission, for damages inflicted. Should we allow Russian privateers to be fitted out in our ports and issue therefrom to prey on English commerce, we should be justly liable to like damages. It would be a proper thing for the United States, which has always contended for the abolition of all war against private property on the ocean, to exercise all possible vigilance in this matter; for after having claimed and accepted the Alabama award, how would our government escape a counter demand? England would suffer losses which in the end we should pay for. A higher policy than that of a desire to see commercial losses inflicted on England should govern the United States.

POLITICAL SKILLED LABOR.

Primary elections are the opportunity of professional politicians. On such occasions organization and skill are everything. Men in office who have nothing to do but draw their salaries and devise ways and means to maintain their hold upon the machinery of party, have enormous advantage. Attempt to compete with them in this matter is useless. Other people have not time to organize, are unfamiliar with the practices necessary to success, or would not employ them if they actually knew how. They must attend to business, or work for a living, have no time to create an organization, and no money with which to support it. The public service, too, is always surrounded by great numbers who are trying to get in, and these make an abundance of materials for politicians to use in order to control party organization. It is often asserted that if those people who do not make a trade of political intrigue would attend primary elections they might beat the professional politicians and control party action. The suggestion smacks of childlike simplicity. Replying to a journal which said that if the bishops and bank presidents would go to the primaries all would be well, the New York World recently remarked: "It is perfectly certain that bishops and bankers will not go to the primaries, and it is quite as clear that if they did they would do no good unless they gave as much attention to managing the primaries as the persons who now manage them; unless, in other words, they gave up their present business and became professional politicians. This recipe of attending primaries has long been published, and some virtuous and simple souls have tried to put it in practice, but who has ever heard of one who accomplished anything satisfactory to himself thereby? Not much can be done by inviting gentlemen who do not know the rules of the game to come in and play it with other gentlemen who have the most valuable cards secreted in their boots." Knowledge of this is a reason why few except those who are making a trade of politics attend primaries. The larger number let them go by default, and appeal to the lawful ballot box to check or correct what they cannot approve. They have neither time nor inclination to get up organizations to control primaries, but they can attend an election.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press complains that the Northern Pacific extension bill did not get through the senate without many crotchetty conditions and amendments which will be burdensome to a struggling and uncompleted road; but it rejoices over Christiancy's amendment kicking Jay Gould's ob out of the bill.

SENATOR GROVER'S FAILURE.

When the Northern Pacific extension bill was taken away from the senate railroad committee and referred to the committee on public lands, there was fine opportunity to put the measure in such shape as would insure its undoubted success. Senator Grover was a member of the committee on public lands. Knowing the vital importance to Oregon of putting the bill in such shape as would give all possible aid for the construction of a railroad, it was his duty to see that the bill was divested of fatal encumbrances and put in such shape as would best secure the desired result. By the reference to the committee on public lands Senator Mitchell had been circumvented. His hostility to the measure could no longer be effective. Then was Senator Grover's opportunity. Instead, however, of insisting that the measure should be reported in proper shape from the committee of which he was a member, and protecting the bill throughout against the known design of his colleague to encumber it with fatal conditions, he yielded to solicitation and under an agreement for a compromise allowed the subject to go back to the railroad committee, where the bill was again overloaded with onerous and fatal provisions. It was announced that a bill would be agreed upon which would be satisfactory to the company and enable it to go on with the road. But it turns out that the bill, after being subjected again to Mr. Mitchell's hand, comes forth in a shape under which no money can be obtained for the work of construction. So the company repudiate it, and will appeal to congress at a future time. This failure need not have happened. Senator Grover is largely to blame for it. Though not the chairman of the committee on public lands, he it was who reported the whole matter from the committee back to the committee on railroads, no doubt at his colleague's entreaty. At a critical time Mr. Grover's backbone always fails him.

And now the worst case of intimidation and bulldosing in connection with the whole interminable presidential election has come to light. Mr. Tilden would have taken the oath of office on Saturday, March 3, 1877, as president of the United States, had he not learned that General Grant was resolved in case he did so to lodge him in Fortress Monroe as a plotter of treason and a disturber of the peace of the United States! We have heard of no case of bulldosing, except possibly that of Eliza Pinkston, that comes near this. He decided that it wouldn't do for him to go to Washington on presidential thoughts intent after the eight-to-seven commission had refused to "go behind the returns."

Capt. A. H. Nickerson, of Gen. Crook's staff, well known in Oregon, recently delivered a lecture at Omaha on the battle of Gettysburg. The lecture was originally prepared some years ago, and has recently been revised and corrected from data obtained from all possible sources, including the confederate archives at Washington. As a piece of descriptive writing it is spoken of very highly. It was at Gettysburg that Captain Nickerson received the almost desperate wounds with which he long struggled, and to which it was feared for a year or more that he must succumb.

If our dispatches truly relate the circumstances of the lynching of Mutchler in Colusa county, Cal., on the morning of the 5th, there is but one conclusion at which all friends of law and justice can arrive, and that is that the fourteen men who dragged a defenseless wounded prisoner, accused of no capital crime nor even of a felony, from the custody of an officer of the law and while upon his bended knees he begged for mercy, even denying him a moment to write to his relatives, riddled his body with bullets, ought to be arrested and punished for willful, deliberate murder.

The San Francisco Chronicle says the Moffett bell punch would yield a revenue of $1,000 a day to that city. Nobody would feel the tax. It would fall upon a bad habit, which is the cause of much of the crime, poverty and ignorance that afflict society. Therefore, exclaims the Chronicle, "let us have the Moffet bell punch."

A Council Bluffs (Iowa) paper notes that almost every day this spring emigrants in covered wagons en route for the Pacific slope pass through that town. But crossing the plains in this way is not what it once was. Wagons now go light. Provisions may be bought anywhere on the journey.

Grand Duke Nicholas has reached St Petersburg. Gen. Todleben, who is left in command near Constantinople, is the right man in the right place in case of war.

THE INDIAN SCARE.—A few days ago an extract from a letter was published in these columns which gave an account of threatened Indian troubles beyond Mount Idaho. It will be remembered that a small squad of soldiers was sent out to investigate the matter, and to ascertain if there was any foundation for the reports which reached Lewiston. James Reuben, the interpreter, accompanied the detachment. Word reached this city last Saturday that Reuben had returned to Lewiston and gave the following account of the reported Indian disturbance. It seems that a party of Indians—some ten or a dozen—were out hunting game and came across two white men. Before approaching within hailing distance the Indians began to make signs and signal to them. At the same time some of the Indians began firing at the game which was in the timber between the parties. The white men thought from the signals that the Indians meant mischief, and that they were firing at them and not the game. Without waiting for an explanation the men fled and spread the report that the Indians had fired at them. Reuben states that there is no truth whatever in the rumor—that the Indians are perfectly peaceable. The people in that whole region of country are very nervous over such reports, and they are likely to become alarmed when no real danger exists.

HOMEWARD BOUND.—Between five and six years ago Mr. Wm. Deardoff, younger son of the late Capt. Deardorff, left this city on a tour of adventure bound for South America. Since his arrival there he has resided principally in Peru, being employed most of the time with parties in making surveys for railroad lines projected by the late Harry Meiggs, the South American "railroad king." Mr. Deardorff has also traveled very extensively since his departure from his old home in Portland. We understand that the young man is now on his way to this city and will soon reach here. His many friends will be gratified to see the "boy" again after his prolonged absence.

PROPERTY RECOVERED.—Officer Hudson, who is one of the best detectives ever connected with the police force of this city, was detailed to work up the East Portland burglary case. He commenced with a will and has succeeded in recovering nearly all the stolen property. The stolen articles were found in a China pawnbroker shop on this side of the river, where they had been brought over and sold. Officer Hudson says there is no doubt but that the burglars are Chinamen. We opine that Hudson will "bring the fellows to taw" pretty soon. If he can't ferret out the thieves it is hardly worth while for any one else to try.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED.—The Telegram says that a young man named Simon, a farm laborer from French Prairie, came to Portland on last Saturday, and in the evening celebrated the occasion by getting on a royal spree. While in this condition he claims that he visited the Ivy Green saloon on Second street, which is kept by a woman named Sophia Collins, that she and a woman who lives in the establishment doped him until he was insensible, and robbed him of over $80 in coin—four twenty dollar pieces and a quantity of silver. As Mr. Simon's word is the only testimony against the women the police are powerless in the matter.

A CASE OF DESTITUTION.—Mr. C. H. Muessdorffer having full knowledge of the circumstances, went among a number of wholesale grocers yesterday on a mission of charity and gathered a goodly lot of flour, bacon, potatoes, bread, &c., and during his travels obtained a sum of money. These articles and cash will be taken by him to a German family about nine miles east of town. This family came here about three years ago, on their passage forming the acquaintance of Mr. Muessdorffer. They have met with indifferent success, and at times suffered with sickness. The action of Mr. M. in behalf of the family is to be commended.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.—Yesterday articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the county clerk by several gentlemen of this city. The name of the corporation is "The Portland District Telephone Company," and the object of the corporation is, to construct, operate and maintain telephonic lines through the city. The capital stock has been fixed at $5,000; amount of each share, $100; number of shares, 50. The incorporators are James Steel, J. H. Guild and W. G. Steel.

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.—About a year ago Mr. L. M. Dyer, the well known blacksmith and wagon maker, had his large shop, situated on the west side of Second street, between Stark and Oak, destroyed by fire. Recently Mr. Dyer purchased a lot 25x100 feet at the northwest corner of Front and Main streets, and is now erecting a two story wooden building on it. When this structure is completed it will be used as a wagon factory and blacksmith shop.

THE LOST FOUND.—As Rev. Mr. Starr was passing along Front street yesterday he espied a valuable horse which formerly belonged to him, in Mr. Kellogg's wagon. The animal had been given up as lost. Of course the gentleman was highly delighted upon finding the absent one. Mr. Kellogg had purchased the horse from respectable parties, and therefore is secured from loss by the return of the equine to its proper owner.

FALSE ALARM.—About 8:30 o'clock yesterday forenoon an alarm of fire was sounded, which called out the fire department in a few minutes. There was no need for the services of the firemen, as the alarm was caused by a dense volume of smoke issuing from the chimney of Kahn Bros.' hide depot on Front street. The flue had become choked with soot and thus the cause of the smoke.

STEAMER CHARTERED.—The favorite excursion steamer City of Salem has been chartered by Tiger Engine Company No. 2, of Albany, to take them on a grand excursion to Corvallis and return, on Friday, May 10th; also by the Capital Guards and fire companies of Salem, to take them on a like excursion to Independence Grove, on Saturday, May 11th.

STREET DRILL.—Last evening the City Rifles, under command of Capt. W. A. Hart, were out in full uniform for a street parade. Headed by martial music, the company marched through the streets for some time. The company has been thoroughly organized since the election of officers, and presented a fine soldierly appearance.

SERENADE.—Before concluding their march the City Rifles, headed by the band under the leadership of Prof. Kay, presented a full front at THE OREGONIAN office. The band discoursed two lively airs beneath our "sanctum sanctorum" for which accept acknowledgement. Giving three rousing cheers for this office, "they marched away."

SPECIAL TERM.—The state circuit court adjourned yesterday without day, after having been in session for many weeks. Judge Shattuck has called a special term of the court, to be held on the 13th inst., for the purpose of hearing the motion to issue execution in the case of the Bank of British Columbia vs. Eugene Semple.

MESSAGES.—The following messages remain uncalled for at the Western Union Telegraph office: Dr. W. A. McCormack, S. H. Tryon, W. F. Wise, Song Lee, Hiram Giles, E. H. Reynolds, Alex Saxer, Geo. W. Bedbury, W. P. Hammon, Charles Flagoller, Mrs. M. E. Wadsworth, Mrs. M. E. Sutherland and Miss Rena.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.—Judge Shattuck will open court at Oregon City this (Tuesday) morning for the purpose of trying Saddler, the self confessed murderer of Capt. Goodin. The defendant is indicted for the gravest crime known to the law, and the case will attract much public attention.

LECTURE.—Mr. Walter Hyde, of New York city, will deliver a lecture this (Tuesday) evening at Good Templar Hall, on the "Religion of Nature and the Nature of Religion." Lecture will commence at 8 o'clock. Admission free.

[illegible]—A few days ago an ex[illegible] from a letter was published in these [illegible] which gave an account of threatened [illegible] troubles beyond Mount Idaho It [illegible] be remembered that a small squad of [illegible] was sent out to investigate the [illegible] and to ascertain if there was any foundation for the reports which reached Lewiston [illegible] Reuben, the interpreter, accompanied [illegible] detachment. Word reached this city last [illegible] that Reuben had returned to Lewiston and gave the following account of the [illegible] Indian disturbance It seems that a [illegible] of Indians—some ten or a dozen—were [illegible] hunting game and came across two white [illegible] Before approaching within hailing distance the Indians began to make signs and [illegible] to them At the same time some of [illegible] Indians began firing at the game which [illegible] in the timber between the parties The [illegible] thought from the signals that the [illegible] meant mischief and that they were [illegible] at them and not the game Without [illegible] for an explanation the men fled and [illegible] the report that the Indians had fired [illegible] Reuben states that there is no truth [illegible] in the rumor—that the Indians are [illegible] peaceable. Slovenly Manuscript

[John Morley in Fortnightly Review.]

I have the misfortune to have a manuscript before me at this moment that will fill ... of these pages and yet from beginning to end there is no indication that it is not to be read at a single breath. The paragraph ought to be, and in all good writers it is, as real and sensible a division as the sentence. It ... organic member in prose ... beginning, a middle and an end, just as a stanza is an organic and definite ... the composition of a whole. I fear ... my manuscript is rather discredited ... but I will correct carefully ... so. Because he is too heedless ... to his work in a workmanlike way he first inflicts fatigue and vexation on the editor whom he expects to read his paper; second he inflicts considerable and quite needless expense on the publisher; and third he inflicts a great deal of tedious and thankless labor on the printers who are for the most part far more meritorious persons than fifth rate authors. It is true that Burke returned such disordered proofs that the printer usually found it least troublesome to set the whole afresh and Miss Martineau tells a story of a Scotch compositor who fled from Edinburgh to avoid a great living author's manuscript and to his horror was presently confronted with a piece of copy which made him cry 'Lord have mercy! Have you got that man to print for?' But most editors will cheerfully forgive such transgressions to all contributors who will guarantee that they write as well as Burke or Carlyle. Alas, it is usually the case that those who have least excuse are the worst offenders. The slovenliest manuscripts come from persons to whom the difference between an hour and a minute is of the very smallest importance. This digression is to be excused partly by the natural desire to say a word against one's persecutors and partly by a hope that some persons of sensitive conscience may be led to ponder whether there may not be after all some moral obligations even towards editors and printers.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

MONDAY EVENING May 6 1878.

Gold in New York 100⅛.

Legal tenders in Portland—buying 99½ selling par

Silver coin, 2@2½ per cent. discount

The week opened to-day with a very good degree of activity in local business circles and both at the banks and among merchants there was more than the usual amount of animation. Monetary matters exhibited about the same condition as noted last week, excepting, perhaps a slightly larger volume of transactions than a week ago while the increased movement of merchandise was quite perceptible. Rates and prices are not changed.

We have been requested to publish the substance of a decision recently rendered in New York by Judge Fancher of the court of arbitration as to the rights of carriers and consignees. It appears that the British steamer Yeddo reached New York on the 17th of October last having on board 583 bales of wool consigned to a dealer. The usual notice of the discharge of cargo was given by the agents of the vessel to the consignees of the same and the wool was delivered to lighter on the 22d of the same month, but during the delivery one bale was missing. It seems to have been lost on the dock and the question submitted to the official arbitrator was, whether the loss should fall on the ship or the consignees of the wool. After examining numerous precedents the decision reached was that the ship was not at fault but that the consignees, or those employed by them to remove the wool are chargeable with the omission to take the missing bale from the pier, and the verdict was in accordance therewith. The law in the case is this: Consignees have a reasonable time to remove goods after notice of their arrival. When the goods are separated from the rest of the cargo, weighed and ready for delivery, consignees must remove them, if they have opportunity to do so.

Wheat and Tonnage.

An abundant wheat crop on the Pacific coast being now regarded as almost a certainty, the probability as to prices, supplies of tonnage and all other questions which affect the future of the market are of paramount interest to producers and dealers. The product of this coast is no longer an inconsiderable factor in the breadstuffs trade of world, and the attention of shipowners is largely attracted here as a point at which to secure cargoes. Latest European advices do not encourage shippers to operate, even if cargoes could be bought at current rates, which cannot be done, for the reason that the surplus stock seems to be about exhausted. There is little or no demand for shipping, and prices for milling are largely nominal. For August and September loading it is reported some contracts have been made at $1 65 per cental, though the old crop is held at 15@20 cents higher. The crops everywhere are reported as average or above, and the principal basis of the hope for high prices is that of a European war. If that should not happen, the heavy crops will work in favor of low prices, and the short stock which will be carried over will operate in an opposite direction. The tonnage supply promises to be as great as the average of former years and only in case of war are freights likely to be high. The tonnage at San Francisco is reported heavy while ten vessels are said to be known to be chartered for this port and several others are coming seeking. It is impossible under present circumstances to give quotations of wheat freights. Ships are unwilling to accept rates which charterers could pay partly from a natural desire to wait until the new crop arrives and take their chances for good freights and partly from a well grounded fear that if they accept a rate based on the last charters drawn they would be detained on demurrage until the middle of July.

Eastern Freights and Markets.

NEW YORK May 6—Clippers are doing a fair business but there are evidences that the season which has been an active one, is drawing to a close that is so far as the movement of certain classes of freight, such as dry goods etc is concerned. However there is an increased movement in coarser kinds of goods such as cement, lumber coal etc but these are going forward rather earlier than usual owing to the low rates of freight current.

The Harvey Mills is well advanced and ought to be finished by the close of the week. The steamer hence April 30th has a full cargo for San Francisco including 555 cases canned goods 35 barrels whisky 52 cases mustard 200 cases yeast powders, 94 cases lemon sugar, 900 bars railroad iron 652 packages dry goods, together with considerable quantity stationery, glassware, etc, also 61 packages merchandise for China and Japan.

Markets dull flour dull, 5@10c lower wheat opened firm but soon weakened for lack of buyers and closed weak at a decline of ½c, pork nominal Rio coffee quiet, hides quiet difference between buyers and sellers too great to admit of business petroleum dull cases 15½@17¼ spirits turpentine dull weak 36½@37.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
Chronic and Acute Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS
public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE
over most physicians—he can tell the patients disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

DR. BRENAN
will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR
has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION.
Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them; they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR PAUL M BRENAN the Medical Lecturer and read his sign on his floor
